Federal and state laws hold election officials and voters accountable for their actions and provide procedures for enforcing accountability. This chapter provides information on how to report suspected violations or complaints alleging misconduct, procedures for responding to voter complaints, and categories of election related criminal offenses.

23.1 How to Handle a Violation or Complaint: Gather Facts to Evaluate Severity and Determine Appropriate Response

One of the most important responsibilities of state and local election officials is responding to complaints alleging illegal conduct and violations of civil rights. States have primary responsibility and local election officials are the front line of enforcement to protect voting rights and prevent fraud. US Const. Art. I. The first step in an effective response is gathering the facts necessary to evaluate the severity of the violation and the options for response. The Incident Report Form discussed in Chapter 27 provides a good tool for gathering facts. Facts indicating a willful violation should be referred for further investigation for possible prosecution to the local Commonwealth’s Attorney, Virginia Attorney General, or United States Attorney (if federally related). 2013 legislation gives the Virginia Attorney General independent authority to initiate election related investigations with a report to the Department of Elections. Election officials should report willful misconduct they observe or discover and refer third-party complaints to the appropriate prosecutor(s) for action. The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) invites complaints concerning civil rights violations and election crimes.

Questions regarding state offenses and suspected violations of state law should be directed to the Commonwealth's Attorney for the locality in which the incident allegedly occurred or may be directed initially to the Virginia Attorney General under 2013 legislation. § 24.2-1019.<sup>1</sup> A Commonwealth's Attorney or any member of an electoral board also may request the Attorney General to investigate substantial election law violations. § 24.2-104.

Questions regarding federal offenses and suspected violations of federal law should be directed to the appropriate United States Attorney for the geographic area (Eastern or Western District) or to the United States Department of Justice Voting Rights Section.

Reporting an alleged violation to the appropriate law enforcement authorities does not require that an official have facts establishing a violation. However, there should be some objective and verifiable basis for any report that might result in an arrest, indictment, or serve as the basis for a contest or other action disputing an election. Normally, the person witnessing an alleged violation should be the person who reports it. However, in many cases concerning Election Day violations at the polls, the registrar or electoral board will report the violation based on statements from an Officer of Election who witnessed the incident. In either case, the Officer of Election or other person who saw the alleged violation should be prepared to document the specifics regarding the incident and testify in court if needed.

It is important to read the statutory language as to each situation presented before presenting a complaint to the Commonwealth's Attorney, Virginia Attorney General, the FBI, or the U.S. Attorney. Local election officials may also want to review the facts with their County or City Attorney before proceeding with the complaint. This process will help local election officials determine what information may need to be gathered before contacting the Commonwealth's Attorney, Virginia Attorney General or the U.S. Attorney, as well as provide guidance on the best course of action to follow.

Both federal and state laws may prohibit the same conduct. For example, federal and state laws prohibit intimidating voters. § 24.2-1005, 18 USC 594, 52 USC § 10307\(b\). The appropriate law enforcement authorities will determine whether the facts reported by an election official, private individual, or group warrant prosecution.

Staff for the Department of Elections may not give legal advice, comment, or disclose information about possible prosecutions of election law offenses. See §§ 2.2-3706, 52-8.3. Staff refers suspected violations to the appropriate law enforcement authorities. Depending on the nature, scope, and particular circumstances of each violation, staff may recommend that the State Board request that the Attorney General assist the local prosecutor if the Board finds that the public interest will be served. §§ 24.2-104, 24.2-

<sup>1</sup> Violations involving alleged false statements on applications are deemed to occur in the locality where the applicant sought to be registered. § 24.2-1019.

1019. A unanimous Board referral puts the Attorney General in charge as opposed to assisting the local prosecutor. The Virginia Attorney General has independent authority to initiate election related investigations under 2013 legislation amending §24.2-104 and is to report the results to the Department of Elections.

23.2 Complaints

Virginia's HAVA State Plan and State Board of Elections regulation provide for handling complaints consistent with HAVA requirements. See, HAVA State Plan, page 20, 1 VAC 20-20-80 . HAVA requires complaints be resolved within 90 days or referred to alternative dispute resolution. 52 USC § 2112\(a\) \(2\) \(H\).

23.2.1 Informal Complaints

Conflict resolution should begin at the local level. Each jurisdiction should have procedures in place to handle conflicts and complaints. While the Department of Elections encourages voters to file informal complaints by calling their toll-free number or contacting them online, ideally this will only occur after the GR or EB members have first been given an opportunity to resolve the conflict at the local level.

Informal complaints filed with the Department of Elections are assigned to the appropriate staff member for resolution as expeditiously as possible. An online complaint form is available on the Department of Elections website. Complaints filed online, by e-mail, or received by phone will immediately be sent to the appropriate GR/EB. Often a call to the GR is all that is needed to clear up a misunderstanding. If the complaint cannot be immediately resolved, the GR/EB should investigate and respond as quickly as possible. The response should be provided to both the voter and the Department of Elections staff member who was assigned to the complaint.

Sometimes complaints allege circumstances indicating a criminal violation. Such complainants should be referred to the local Commonwealth's Attorney, Virginia Attorney General and/or the US Attorney if federal law is involved. Election officials also have a responsibility to independently report allegations of serious offenses to ensure that appropriate enforcement action is taken.

23.2.2 Formal Complaints

For complaints arising under Title III of HAVA, Virginia has adopted a formal grievance procedure as required by HAVA. 52 USC § 2112.<sup>2</sup> This procedure has been implemented

<sup>2</sup> Title III deals with voting equipment, accessibility, provisional voting, voting information, the computerized statewide voter list used to create pollbooks, identification requirements for voting in federal elections if registration was by mail; and contents of registration forms

though State Board regulation, complaint form and instructions. The Department of Elections provides on its website, the Virginia Voters' Election Day Complaint Form. Localities share responsibility to make this form available, especially at all polling places. Virginia's procedure requires that a formal complaint must be notarized and sent to the Department of Elections within 10 days after the incident occurred. Virginia's published instructions provide that the complainant will have the opportunity to request a hearing with the State Board of Elections and that the Commissioner of Elections or Deputy Commissioner of Elections will sign a final disposition resolving the matter within 90 days or request an extension. If no extension is granted, the matter will be referred for alternative dispute resolution. Normally the GR or EB will be contacted for information concerning the complaint and will be allowed an opportunity to review the proposed response.

23.2.3 Election Related Criminal Offenses

Election offenses may violate state laws, federal laws, or both. Offenses involving conspiracy to deny voting rights, fraud, and willful misstatements are felonies punishable by more than a year in prison and large fines. Less serious offenses involving disruptive conduct and disobedience are misdemeanors punishable by up to 12 months in jail and smaller fines. Campaign finance-related violations are often viewed as civil rather than criminal offenses. However, serious campaign finance offenses can be felonies. A finding of willfulness elevates the seriousness and generally increases the penalty.

Election offenses fall into three broad categories: official misconduct, fraud or interference with the registration or election process, and campaign and campaign finance-related violations. In filing charges, prosecutors may consider the fact that actions may have violated multiple election laws. Relevant federal and state law provisions in each area are summarized in the tables below

23.2.4 Official Misconduct<sup>3</sup>

Unlawful acts of misconduct and wrongdoing in the performance of official duties in administering elections are known as malfeasance. This official misconduct is subject to both civil penalties and criminal prosecution.

23.2.5 Offenses Related to Voter Registration and Voting

Election laws strictly regulate voter registration and election activities. Offenses can range in seriousness from a misdemeanor for failing to provide a voter registration receipt, to a felony for conspiracy to deny voting rights. Suspected criminal offenses are reported to the local Commonwealth's Attorney who may contact the Assistant United States Attorney if a federal crime is involved. §§ 24.2-1016; 24.2-1019, 18 USC 241. Under 2013 legislation, the Virginia Attorney General also has independent authority to initiate investigations of election law offenses and report the results to Department of Elections. Va. Code § 24.2-104.

-  Facilitating voting: benefits that help people vote like a postage stamp for an absentee ballot or a ride to the polls are not considered violations of federal law, according to the FBI.

<sup>4</sup> Items worn by voters, but not candidates or representatives, are excluded from this prohibition.

- ① Loitering within the prohibited area is probably the most frequent source of complaints. Immediate arrests for violations of this law are uncommon. Typically, violators are overeager campaign volunteers or candidates with a tendency to forget where the 40-foot boundary is or the limits of the provision for candidate voting and 10-minute visits. Usually, officers of election warn such violators before taking legal action. If a violator repeatedly refuses to heed such a warning, then arrest may be warranted. Suggestion: Officers of election may show the violator the specific wording of § 24.2-604, or they may point out the language of this Code section on the “Prohibited Area” signs that they post outside the polling place.
- ① Offenses relating to assisting voters: Any voter who needs assistance in preparing his ballot because of a physical disability or inability to read or write (including those with limited English proficiency) can request such assistance. The assistant (who can be an officer of election) must cast the ballot for the voter according to the direction of that voter. The assistant cannot in any way influence the decision of the voter.<sup>5</sup> Finally, the assistant cannot divulge how the person voted. Violation of any of these laws related to assistance is punishable as a Class 1 misdemeanor, and may be a felony if related to absentee voting or fraudulent. § 24.2-649\(D\).

23.2.6 Campaign Related Offenses: Reporting and Advertising

23.2.6.1 Virginia

Virginia does not prohibit any properly reported contribution, except certain contributions received during the regular legislative sessions. § 24.2-954. Virginia campaign finance laws provide both civil penalties and criminal prosecution for violations. Willful campaign finance and advertising related violations are typically prosecuted as misdemeanors. §§ 24.2-953, 24.2-955.3. However, filing a willfully false material statement constitutes the crime of election fraud and is punishable as a Class 5 felony. § 24.2-1016.

The State Board determines a schedule of civil penalties for deficiencies in campaign finance reports. §§ 24.2-946.3. The local electoral board and the Department of Elections must impose the applicable civil penalties for deficient reports. §§ 24.2-946.3, 24.2-953, <sup>5</sup> If the voter is not capable of understanding what he is doing and cannot direct how his vote is cast, the matter should be referred to the Commonwealth's Attorney or Virginia Attorney General for possible prosecution of the person rendering improper assistance, whether or not an assistance form was completed. For example, it is not legal for voters residing in nursing homes, or suffering from long-term mentally debilitating illnesses, to "be voted" by a family member or staff. Even if the assistant says, "I know how he/she would want to vote," if the voter could not actually direct how his/her vote was cast, improper assistance has been rendered and the matter must be referred to the Commonwealth's Attorney or Attorney General.

24.2-955.3. With one exception, no appropriately levied civil penalty may be waived. In the case of a political action committee that is required to submit a statement of organization, a penalty for failure to timely file that report may be waived by the State Board upon a demonstration of good cause. § 24.2-946.3. Extensions may be granted in special circumstances as provided in § 24.2-946.4.

Commonwealth’s Attorneys are responsible for enforcing collection of unpaid civil penalties and prosecuting criminal violations. §§ 24.2-946.3, 24.2-955.3, 24.2-1019. The Virginia Attorney General also has broad prosecutorial authority under 2013 legislation amending §24.2-104. However, the local Commonwealth’s Attorney, State Board of Elections, or the local electoral board may request assistance from the Attorney General. §§ 24.2-104. The Department of Elections staff, local election officials, or the public may report an alleged violation of any provision of Title 24.2 to the Commonwealth’s Attorney. §24.2-1019.

Local election officials often receive complaints regarding issues outside the scope of their authority. Enforcement of ordinances governing issues, such as the placement of campaign signs, are the responsibility of the local government. § 15.2-109. All complaints received should be referred to the city or county attorney or administrator. See GREB 21 (discussing disclaimers). Complaints about campaign telephone calls to solicit or convey information for participating candidates or political parties are also not within the scope of the authority of the local election official. Political calls are not covered by the federal or state “Do Not Call” laws and lists. Voters may ask political parties and committees voluntarily to remove the voter’s information from their contact lists. Disclaimers are not required for telephone surveys that do not meet any of the definitions under § 24.2-955.1.

*Collection of civil penalties is subject to statute of limitations that expires the earlier of 1 year after discovery or 3 years after violation. Va. Code § 19.2-8.

23.2.6.1 Federal

Federal regulation of campaign finance and advertising is more complex, with enforcement responsibility shared by the Federal Election Commission (for civil violations) and the US Department of Justice (for criminal violations). Public communications urging people to support or oppose federal candidates must have disclaimers. The Federal Election Campaign Act (FECA), 2 USC 431-455, provides civil and criminal penalties for all violations of the FECA, including making excessive or prohibited contributions. Any violation of the FECA can be punished by a civil penalty. To constitute a crime, a violation must be "knowing and willful," which requires the individual to understand the law and nonetheless undertake the prohibited conduct willfully.

Investigations by the FEC can be initiated by a citizen's complaint or by the FEC itself. Under 2 USC 437g, the FEC may undertake a confidential investigation resulting in dismissal of the complaint if no violation is found. If the FEC finds probable cause to believe that a violation has been committed then they may attempt to negotiate a conciliation agreement. Civil penalties may be imposed in the conciliation process. If the FEC believes that a violation has occurred, but the party disagrees and declines to enter a conciliation agreement, the FEC can bring a civil enforcement action in federal court. In the event of criminal prosecution by the U.S. Attorney General, a civil conciliation agreement with the FEC can be cited as evidence of lack of knowledge of the law or intent to violate it. 2 USC 437g (d) (2). The agreement will also be considered by the court when deciding the seriousness of the violation and the appropriateness of the punishment being proposed. 2 USC 437g (d) (3).

The FEC's civil enforcement procedure is not a bar to direct criminal prosecution by the U.S. Attorney General. United States v. Orkin Exterminating Co., 688 F. Supp. 223 \(W.D.Va. 1988\). The FEC may also refer a matter to the Attorney General on finding probable cause of a knowing and willful violation. 2 USC 437g (a) (5) (C) and 437g(c). An affirmative vote of four members of the FEC (there are six commissioners) is required to take actions under the civil enforcement procedure. Questions regarding federal offenses or suspected violations of federal law should be directed to the appropriate United States Attorney for the geographic area (Eastern or Western District) or to the United States Department of Justice Voting Rights Section.
